

Training

Perlustro has partnered with SUMURI to deliver training and certifications related to Perlustro products such as ILookPI. The SUMURI team has vast experience in training on a wide range of topics relating to digital evidence which has been delivered to law enforcement, government and corporate investigators all over the world. SUMURI's training team is comprised of experts who actively practice and contribute to the fields in which they instruct and hold many top certifications in digital forensics and information security.

The first classes for ILookPI will begin in August of 2010 within the United States. All of SUMURI's training courses are mobile allowing us to bring our training to your agency or company. SUMURI and Perlustro understand that due to the economy, training and travel budgets for many agencies have been reduced. Because of this we can work with your agency or company to host ILookPI training at your site and thereby reducing travel costs.

ILookPI training follows the same philosophy as other SUMURI courses. We realize that every participant is not the same and has different levels of experience. Our instructors take the time to learn about each participant and customize each class based on the classes experience level as a whole. A teamwork approach is used for training and no participant is ever left behind. We familiarize and review all of the tools and hardware with the participant that are to be used during the course before the in-depth lessons truly begin. Once the participants are comfortable with the tools and hardware we utilize them in a way that mimics real cases that the participant would encounter during the course of their work. A Practical Skills Assessment is given at the end of the course to measure what was learned during the lessons. After successful completion of the course the participant will receive a certificate of competency.
